DETAILED ACTION

This is the First Office Action in response to the above identified patent application filed on February 11, 2004.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In the preamble of the claims, the addition of the word "type" to an otherwise definite expression extends the scope of the expression so as to render it indefinite. Ex parte Copenhaver, 109 USPQ 118 (Bd. App. 1955).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by either US Patent 4,928,542 ('542) or JP Reference 2629786 ('786).

US Patent '542 and JP Reference '786 disclose a CVT comprising: an input shaft, a pair of input disks disposed in such a manner as to be spaced apart from each other in an axial direction, output disks interposed between said pair of input disks in such a manner as to be opposed to said input disks, a pressing mechanism pressing said input disk toward said output disk, a hollow shaft disposed around an outer periphery of said input shaft concentrically with said input shaft and connecting said pair of input disks to each other, wherein said input shaft defines an oil hole formed in a non-penetrating portion of said input shaft where said input shaft does not penetrate through said hollow shaft, and opened on an outer peripheral surface of said non-penetrating portion, and an oil passage is formed between an inner peripheral surface of said hollow shaft and an outer peripheral surface of a penetrating portion of said input shaft where said input shaft penetrates through said hollow shaft.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over either US Patent 4,928,542 ('542) or JP Reference 2629786 ('786), as applied to claim 4 above, and further in view of US Patent 5,027,668 ('668).

The prior art applied above does not teach a cover member configured to cover the loading cam. The prior art to US Patent '668 teaches the known technique of covering the loading cam with a cover member. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the CVT of either US Patent '542 or JP Reference '786 with a cover member, as taught by to US Patent '668, motivation being to control the flow of lubricant with respect to the loading device.

Allowable Subject Matter

7. Claims 2-3 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Note the prior art CVT to Itoh et al. ('112).
